

Have Gun Will Travel : The Complete Series

Season One

[commence paper Friday, May 19, 2017 at 3:33 p, PDT]:

Just as I just completed yesterday on the Rawhide : The Complete Series two-part paper, I will revisit Have Gun Will Travel (HGWT). I already discussed HGWT is two separate papers. One entry starting on page 139 that I wrote in 1999 is here:

http://www.filmscorerundowns.net/herrmann/cbs_years.pdf

The next paper in 2006/2007 is here:

<http://www.filmscorerundowns.net/herrmann/havegunwilltravel.pdf>

This second (latter) paper covered in great detail Seasons 1 thru 3. At the time, only the first three seasons were available on dvd. Just recently I purchased The Complete Series that I received on I believe April 20, 2017. Now that I am finished with Rawhide, I can now devote time & energy on updating the information and add images to Seasons 1 thru 3, and also write a rundown of the rest of the series. So "New & Improved" papers on HGWT!

OK. Let's start with the pilot episode, "Three Bells To Perdido" that aired on CBS September 14, 1957 (I was seven years old and watched the series way back then!). Note that according to CBS Memo papers, Herrmann's contract for HGWT was I believe January 18, 1957:

15:18 thru 16:04 M-25 "The Fight." Scene: Early dinner scene at Dave's place. Paladin is trying to goad Dave into a confrontation. As Nancy goes into the house to get wine, Paladin, in a famous scene, speaks his mind: "You have to fight, Dave, or come back with me. You've got both my guns. I give you my word I haven't another. Now let's see you fight! You're a miserable, slimy, yellow, scrawny coward who bushwhacks men or stabs or shoots them in the back. If you had any stomach for fighting, you would've finished that boy in the cantina. You would've finished me. But you couldn't because we were face to face with you. You're about as much man as a wood louse!" At this point, Dave whips out his knife and attacks Paladin.

Actually, as Paladin begins his dressing down of Dave, the music also commences. The CBS Library Log Books describe it as "Muted brass on heavy suspense with some motion to :30. Then agitated, fast staccato brass figure thrown from brass choir to brass choir. No tail."

18:07 thru 19:37 M-31 "The Return" Moderato in C time, 32 bars, 1:16. Scene: After being questioned by the town mayor near the pass, Paladin and Nancy hurriedly ride off. Soon, however, the alarm is heard and Paladin has to shoot a guard above on the rocks. During the unrelenting ride towards the Rio Grande, Nancy leaves signs of their passing (handkerchief, glove) to alert Dave.

The CBS Library Log Books describe this cue as "Neutral, brooding, suspense low brass over marching tuba ostinato; at 1:04, accelerando to short tag."

N/A : M-32 "The River" Moderato in C time, 15 bars, :46. [NOTE: This cue is not used in the episode] Pretty identical to the previous cue. The CBS Library Log Books describe it as "Neutral, brooding suspense with some motion, low brass over ostinato."

20:52 thru 21:39 : M-33 "The Rocks" Largo sost in C time, 21 bars, :59. Scene: Dave rifle shoots at Paladin's back. Soon he even tries to shoot Nancy. Paladin rushes up to the rocks where Dave is hiding. The CBS Library Log Books describe the cue as "Slow, majestic, dramatic unison brass, ff, alternated with tymp figure."

The scene above is how "The Rocks" cue ends.....

22:21 thru 23:01 . M-34 "Reunited" Scene: Jesse Reed goes outside to talk with Nancy. The CBS Library Log Books describe this cue as "Lonely horn solo over soft sustained trombones."

Handwritten musical score for "REUNITED" - "38" by B. Herrmann. The score is for a horn solo over soft sustained trombones. It includes staves for Horn I, II, III, and IV, and Trombone I, II, III, and IV. The music is in 4/4 time and features a lonely horn solo over soft sustained trombones. The score is marked with "Soco" and "p esm".

23:02 thru 23:36 Scene: Paladin with Dave in Jesse Reed's living room. Paladin says, after seeing Nancy hugging her dad, "How does a man throw away the most valuable thing he'll ever own, I'll never understand that. Well, Dave, the Marshall's waiting for you. Let's travel. Then it's the Golden Gate for me, and I wonder what kind for you!" The CBS Library Log Books describe the cue as "Dark, dramatic brass over heavy dramatic tympani ostinato to tympani roll tail."

23:37 thru 23:56 Note: repeat of "The Street"

24:40 thru 24:49 : M-37 "End Tag" Moderato in 3/4 time, 4 bars, :12. Scene: As Paladin goes up the lobby stairs to a poker game, he whispers something to a woman's ear, and they both laugh. The CBS Library Log Books describe this cue as a "Brass sneak to slow full dramatic tag."

"Closing Title" 44 bars, 1:02 [short version :43]. Coma sopra M-11 Bars 1-16, etc. Cue ends on D major (notes D/F#/A). CBS Library Log Books describe it as "Heavy staccato brass groups to full brass curtain." NOTE: Not included in the dvd edition but used for the rest of the episodes in Season One. Instead the "Paladin" song was inserted....

24:53 thru 25:39 "Paladin" Paladin Theme [second season to end of series] Johnny Western/Richard Boone/S. Rolfe. Version A 1:00. "Fast western accompaniment featuring guitar and accordion. Slow fade at end."

Moderately Bright

The musical score is written for piano and voice. It begins with a piano introduction in 2/4 time, marked 'Moderately Bright' and 'mf'. The piano part features a steady eighth-note accompaniment. The vocal melody enters in the second system with the lyrics: '1. Have gun will trav-el reads the card of a man'. The piano part provides harmonic support with chords F, C7, and F. The third system continues the melody with lyrics: 'trav - els on to wher - ev - er he must.' and 'A A'. The piano part includes chords C7, F, C7, and F. The fourth system has lyrics: 'knight with-out ar-mor in a sav-age land. His fast gun for chess knight of sil-ver is his badge of trust. There are camp - fire'. The piano part includes chords Bb, F, and Bb. The fifth system has lyrics: 'hire__ heeds the call - ing wind. A sol - dier of for-tune is the leg-ends that the plains-men spin of the man with the gun, of the'. The piano part continues with the same accompaniment.

This is a weak but fun episode, hardly the typical HGWT morality play! Incidentally, this is the first of many episodes of HGWT written by Gene Roddenberry (later of Star Trek fame). This is a dynamic, action-packed episode with lots of Herrmann music quoted (edited in). It also guest stars the lovely Angie Dickinson as Amy Bender just before she became a much bigger star (remember her in Rio Bravo with John Wayne?). It also stars Harold J. Stone as Holgate. October 2, 1957  A+

This is one of the Top Three HGWT episodes, intelligently and cleverly written (by Ken Kolb), smoothly edited, a sort of film noir Western mystery! Bravo! If there ever had to be a HGWT episode put into a time capsule for permanent preservation, a perfect representation of the essence of the series, then this is the right episode. It stars Michael Pate as Miguel Rojas, a Mexican dignity, and June Vincent as his unhappy wife, Maria. This is not one of those predominantly location-shot episodes. Much of it is studio/set based but that enhanced the moodiness and atmosphere of the story. I would give this episode the very best A+ rating, or a five star  rating.

This episode stars Strother Martin as the self-doubting acrobatic Dooley Delaware. Strother was a guest star just three episodes earlier. Co-starring is John Dehner & Fay Spain. You will see several guest stars showing up many times in the series, including Harry Carey, Jr. and Denver Pyle. This is an ok episode, not particularly interesting or of great depth and meaning, just common middle-drawer type of story.

The performer for the episode was probably only several feet about the ground.

This cue was used many times for CBS. It was inserted in several Twilight Zone episodes, perhaps most notably in the "Odyssey of Flight 33" episode.

By the way, just two nights ago on June 5, 2017, I watched Norma Crane in a Ironside episode titled " Five Miles High" dated 11/27/1969 about a killer on a plane trying to kill a mob witness (played by Milton Selzer). Norma sure liked like, say, the older sister of Suzanne Pleshette. In "Ella West" you also get Remember him as a henchman of Spats in Some Like It Hot? This episode stars Harry Townes as a rather displaced Bostonian out in the West, and Constance Ford as his wife, Gloria. She is noted for various roles, but I think one of the most memorable beyond her many television stints was as the bossy and critical Helen Jorgenson in A Summer Place. This episode has almost no Herrmann clips but there is indeed interesting music (primarily Rene Garriguenc) and accompanying scenes. For example, in Chapter 1 from 18:14 to 18:47 (end of chapter), we have the scene where interesting, not static. The direction (Andrew McLaglen) is intelligent and well-conceived. You see Gloria in moderate close up with her eyes looking slowly up at Paladin (unseen in the shot) from holstered leg to face, and then and sets on a close up of his face (apparently mimicking what Gloria was doing!). And the accompanying music by Garriguenc is very interesting HGWT fanfare). I have to seek out the exact title of the cue. I believe I hand-copied it but have to look for it.

Although there is a virtual lack of Herrmann quotations, the Garriguenc music more than makes up for it. Moreover, I liked the pointed dialog between Gloria and Paladin starting at 17:45 in which he basically tells her off! This short dialog is worth the time spent on this episode, and worth the price of the set perhaps. Very good dialog lines and very good

I like this episode (written by Ken Kolb) a lot, perhaps putting it in appeals to me, especially in that lonely church scene at night (see Chapter 1 from 8:57 thru Chapter 2 at 1:55). One scene I like to look at in freeze-frame nice composition with the window and shadows, Paladin facing Isabel.

Isabel is played by the beautiful Betsy Von Furstenberg (Broadway star who also did many televis this episode! However, while I think she is elegant and lovely to watch, I am even more drawn to the beauty of Paula Raymond in the episode titled -9-60). Perhaps you remember her best in Har Beast From 20,000 Fathoms.

By the way, right after the opening credits of "The Girl from Piccadilly" episode of Have Gun Will Travel from 00:45 thru 00:48, you see the episode start with an estate house from the Thirties or Forties with two automobiles parked outside! Talk about a continuity error! Paladin's time frame is set sometime in the early 1870's I believe (like Rawhide & Gunsmoke). I will note more such errors in future episodes. Here is that scene immediately below:

Handwritten musical score for "Dramatic Finale" (American) by Rene Cornigoum, CBS 8-47-C. The score is for a band and includes parts for Trumpets (Tpts), Trombones (Tbn), and Percussion (Perc). The tempo is marked "Moderato" at 69. The score is numbered 187 and includes a section labeled "A" with a tempo of 70. The score is handwritten on yellowed paper and includes a box labeled "30" on the right side. The score is marked "Hand-copied by Bill Wrobel" and "1-12-98 UCA".

This is an okay episode. There are no distinctive stars per se, although I liked the performance of James Craig as Ralph Cole.

-1:25 thru 1:47 : HGWT). Scene: Paladin in the Carlton Hotel reads a headline from Big Spur News, Colorado.

-1:48 thru 2:32 : CBS cue #176 "Quiet Street" by Rene Garriguenc. Gene Feldman or whomever the music editor was for this episode did a logical insertion with this specific moody cue since Paladin slowly rides into town that is indeed quiet except for some people abandoning it because outlaws took it over.

Handwritten musical score for CBS cue #176 "Quiet Street" by Rene Garriguenc. The score is written on ten staves for various instruments: Hns (Horns), Tpt (Trumpets), Pos (Positively), and Tuba. It includes tempo markings like "mod.to 1=69-72" and "mod.to 1=69-72". The score is numbered 1 through 10 at the bottom. There are also some handwritten notes like "CBS 8.56-C" and "mod.to 1=69-72".

The written score is located in Box 2 in the CBS Collection at UCLA Music Library Special Collections. You can hear this finale cue in many episodes but I neglected to comment on it in earlier ones. The instrumentation is precisely the same as in many of the Herrmann suites for CBS: 4 horns, 3 trumpets, 3 trombones, tuba, and timp. The cue ends in Bar 10 on the D major (D/F#/A) tonality. Horns play D/F#/A [written A/Line 2 C#/E] rinforzando whole notes held fermata. Trumpets play A/Line 2 D/A [written B/E/B] whole notes, while the trombones sound D/A/Line 1 F# whole notes, and tuba on Great octave D. The timp is rolled on small octave D whole note held fermata.

Once again, this episode is not included in the old dvd set (but properly included in the 2017 The Complete Series set), although it is listed next season! I am referring to my subscription set but I believe the same applies to the general release dvd set of Season I. Fortunately I have the old vhs format of the entire series and watched it last week (Postscript: based on the old writing of this paper). Curiously, in the old vhs set of four episodes Compared to so many fine episodes, this one is somewhat substandard. At best I'll give it two stars but as a D + rather than a simple C (as in "Common!"). In fact this is the first of the final three episodes of Season One, and they are all rather weak. I believe the writers and stars all desperately needed a vacation because the stories and acting appeared rather and a sense of fun. Paladin goes to Monterey to investigate the disappearance of a man who was rumored to have been a prisoner of a silver mine owned by Don Francisco. The only interesting segment is the use of Police Force.

-22:10 thru 22:37 : "Lead In F" (Police Force). Edited sequence.

-24:10 thru 24:19: CBS cue #191 "Trouble No. 2" by Rene Garriguenc.

-24:20 thru 24:32 : segue to "Gunfight" bars from Western Saga.

-25:07 thru 25:21 : I believe this is an end tag from the HGWT pilot but I am too tired to look anymore for brief quotes. Time for a brief break!

June 14, 1958  C

John Carradine stars as Father Bartolome, and Simon Oakland as Sancho Fernandez. This is good casting but the story is something I am not too enthusiastic about. Come to think of it, Simon Oakland is rather miscast here as the Mexican bandit type (although I like Simon Oakland). He was better cast in the Gunsmoke episode t 1958) as the American bandit, Jim Nation. Moreover, unlike the previous episode, it is practically devoid of interesting music. You can skip (adios) this episode of Season One if you are pressed for time but it's ok enough to watch at least once if only because of the nice location shooting.

-11:28 thru 12:14: HGWT) Bars 18-19, 21-23, 42-45. Scene: Paladin rides to the mine entrance and Sancho appears.

-16:06 thru 16:21 : CBS cue #1089L "Neutral Sneak & Finale" by Rene Garriguenc. Scene: Sancho (Simon Oakland) demands sanctuary at the church.

-25:04 thru 25:12 : CBS cue #1089 G "Sneak & Finale No. 1" by Rene Garriguenc. Note that I showed the written music in previous episodes.
